Subcontractor Application Package -- BuildStack Construction Co.

Status: DRAFT. Not committed. Every [BLANK] must be filled before submission.

Companion files to gather: [COI] = certificate of insurance, [W9] = W-9, [LIC] = license verification printout, [BOND] = bond/surety letter, [SAFETY] = safety packet.

venv/bin/python docs/build_subapplication.py --internal  # adds Parts 3-6

Parts 3-6 are marked <!-- internal --> and are left out of the submission build on purpose. Part 3 in particular is a working reference with blank fields in it -- sending it to a GC would hand them an unfilled application.

RE: Subcontractor qualification -- [PROJECT NAME / RFQ #]

Dear [MR./MS. LAST NAME],

BuildStack Construction Co. is a licensed, bonded, and insured general contractor applying to be on your approved subcontractor list for [PROJECT NAME / TRADE PACKAGE / MARKET].

We are a Hampton Roads GC that self-performs the major trades on residential renovation, remediation, and rental work -- plumbing, electrical, roofing, carpentry/framing, drywall, tile, and flooring. What that means for your project is fewer handoffs: one written scope, one schedule, one crew responsible from demolition to final walkthrough, and one person to call when something needs a decision.

Three things we think matter most to a GC:

1. We carry the coordination burden, not your superintendent. We manage our own permitting and inspections, and we bring in vetted, insured partners only where a specialty is genuinely outside our crew. You get a compliant job and a single point of contact, not a list of trades to chase.

2. Fixed-price scope, documented change orders. Our contracts are written, fixed-price scopes with a defined punch list at the end. We will not bill you for a change we did not flag, price, and get your sign-off on first. Photo updates go out through the build, so your owner reports and your file stay current without you chasing us.

3. We know the rental and remediation market. This is a real niche, not a side note. A large share of our work is short-term rental make-readies and water/flood remediation rebuilds. Our sister company, Broom Service, handles the turnover side -- cleaning, linen, and co-hosting -- so we can scope and price a property to a stay-ready standard, not just to code. If your pipeline includes investor or hospitality work, we can carry a property from punch to first booking.

Our service area is Williamsburg-Hampton Roads, Virginia and Currituck County / Elizabeth City, North Carolina. [NC LICENSES HELD: ___ / IF APPLICABLE]

Qualifications and documentation. Our license, general liability and workers' compensation coverage, surety letter, W-9, and safety program are current and attached / available on request. [ATTACH: ___, ___, ___]

I would welcome the opportunity to bid [SPECIFIC SCOPE] or to price a test package so you can evaluate us on live work. I am reachable directly at [757-908-7121] and at [EMAIL], and I will return a complete, itemized bid within [X] business days of receiving the drawings and scope.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

2a. Experience & qualifications -- BuildStack Construction Co.

Principal: [NAME] . 32 years in residential construction . began at 15 as a laborer.

#	Role	Years	Ages	What it proves
1	Laborer	5	15-20	Started at the bottom -- grading, site prep, materials, demolition. The trades that teach you how a job actually goes together.
2	Journeyman -- all trades	13	20-33	Credentialed across plumbing, electrical, framing/carpentry, roofing, drywall and finish. This substantiates the self-performed trades above: not a crew assembled from subs, but one individual certified in each.
3	Supervisor	4	33-37	Direct supervision of trades, sequencing, QA, site safety.
4	General Foreman	5	37-42	Overall job-site accountability: scheduling, subcontractor coordination, inspections, budget-to-complete, manpower across trades.
5	Construction Control Representative (federal sector)	6	42-48	Building inspector for federal construction -- reviewing work against contract specifications and code, issuing findings, rejecting non-conforming work, approving or refusing acceptance.
6	Principal, BuildStack Construction Co.	now--		The same 32 years, now with [NAME] on the contract.

32 years, continuous, in one trade: laborer -> journeyman (all trades) -> supervisor -> general foreman -> federal construction inspector -> own company.

Why this matters to a GC

1. Permits clear the first time. Six years of reading other people's work against the code and the contract means this company knows what an inspector will ask for before the inspection is called. Rejections, re-inspections and inspector-driven rework are the most common way a residential GC loses a week and eats a change order.

1. The scope is honest. A GC whose principal was a journeyman in all trades for thirteen years is not pricing from a spreadsheet -- they know which bids are missing something.

1. Runs a site, not just a crew. Nine years between Supervisor and General Foreman is schedule, manpower, sequencing and budget-to-complete.

1. Nothing to learn on your project. There is no ramp-up period, because this is not a first job.

[CONFIRM: exact certification body and number for each trade held. This is the strongest part of the application -- do not leave it vague. Example: "VA State Electrical Journeyman #XXXXX", "VA Master Plumber #XXXXX".]

Differentiators

1. Single-point accountability. One written scope, one schedule, one crew, one PM.
2. Permits and inspections managed in-house -- the #1 source of schedule slippage on residential GC work does not land on your super.

1. Written fixed-price scopes with signed change orders only. No billing for undocumented changes.

1. Photo-documented progress through the build -- your owner reporting stays current.
2. Rental / STR specialization with a sister operations company (Broom Service) covering turnover, linen, and co-hosting -- punch to first booking under one family of companies.

1. Remediation and insurance-restoration work -- water/flood rebuild, mold-aware scopes, documented for carrier claim files.

1. 24/7 phone answer and fast turnarounds on RFIs, change orders, and bid questions.

PART 3 -- PORTAL / FORM FIELD ANSWERS

Most GC sub portals and public bid portals ask these. Answer in past tense, third person, no hype. Answer EVERY field -- a skipped field reads as an incomplete application.

Company identification

Field	Answer
Legal company name	[LEGAL NAME -- MUST MATCH W-9 EXACTLY]
Doing business as	BuildStack Construction Co.

Electrical / plumbing / HVAC licenses	[N/A -- performed under GC license by licensed trade partners / or LIST]

Willing to work under others' licenses?	[YES/NO]
Exclusions or limitations on license?	[NONE]

Watch this. Your site advertises self-performed plumbing and electrical. If you do not hold master electrician / master plumber license though you self-perform those trades -- a GC will check DPOR and find nothing. Answer truthfully that they are performed by licensed our GC license, or drop the self-perform claim on those rows in Part 2.

Use the projects from your portfolio. Convert them to dollar values and dates.
Anonymize customer names -- refer to "private residential client" and offer references separately. A GC cannot use your customer names without written release anyway.

Fit questions (open-ended -- write real answers)

Why do you want to be on our subcontractor list?

We self-perform the trades most residential GCs have to piece together from four different companies, and we manage our own permits and inspections. On a tight schedule that removes the two most common sources of delay. We also carry real volume in rental make-ready and remediation work, which is a specialty scope rather than a commodity one -- if that is a category you are growing, we can be useful at a level a general carpentry sub cannot.

What makes you different from your competition?

Written fixed-price scopes with signed change orders only, photo-documented progress on every build, and a single point of contact from demolition to punch list. We do not bill for changes we did not flag and price first.

Describe a project that went wrong and how you handled it.

[WRITE THIS YOURSELF. GCs weigh this more than any other answer. Keep it short: what broke, what it cost, what you did, what changed afterward. 100 words. Do not blame anyone.]

What is your current schedule capacity?

[MM] active projects. Open slots through [DATE]. [Note any surge capacity -- you can absorb a start within ___ days.]

Do you work as both a GC and a sub?

Yes. As a GC we run the whole job and manage specialty partners. As a sub we work inside your scope, your schedule, your superintendent, and your documentation -- and we do not go around your chain of command to your owner.

Anything else we should know?

[24/7 answering line, sister company for STR turnovers, your ability to mobilize quickly on warranty/service work, insurance-restoration documentation, etc.]

PART 4 -- ATTACHMENT CHECKLIST

[ ] W-9 -- legal name and EIN must match the license and the COI exactly. Mismatches here are the single most common reason a sub application gets rejected.

[ ] Certificate of Insurance -- current, and naming [GC NAME] as additional insured if required. Verify the GC is a named AI or that you have the endorsement, not just the cert.

[ ] License verification -- DPOR/NC printout or state lookup screenshot showing class, qualifier, and expiration.

[ ] Bond / surety letter -- with power of attorney and current program limits.

[ ] Safety program -- 1-2 pages: written program, PPE, fall protection, toolbox talk log, substance-free policy.

[ ] EMR / experience letter from your insurance carrier.

[ ] W-9 + EIN letter if the portal asks for the EIN separately.

[ ] Capability statement (Part 2, as PDF).

[ ] Project list with values and dates (anonymized).

[ ] Resumes / bios for the owner and crew lead: [NAME], [NAME].

[ ] List of current projects with schedule and dollar value -- proves you are busy and solvent.

[ ] Bank letter or line of credit if the project requires bonding over [X].

[ ] References confirmed -- call each one before you submit.

PART 5 -- SUBMIT, THEN FOLLOW UP

1. Attach everything in one email. Portals that get attachments piecemeal stall.
2. Subject line: Subcontractor Application -- [GC NAME] -- [PROJECT/RFQ #] -- BuildStack Construction Co. (VA Lic. #XXXXXXX)
3. Follow up in 5 business days, not 2. A GC sub list is not an emergency.
4. If they want a test package -- say yes to the smallest one you can profitably do well. It is the only real path from "new company" to "on the list."

1. Log every bid with the outcome. After 5-10 bids you will know your real win rate and whether price or credentials is what is losing you work.

PART 6 -- HONEST NOTES BEFORE YOU SUBMIT

The company is new. The experience is not -- lead with that. The LLC is 2026. The principal has 32 continuous years behind it, ending with six as a federal construction inspector. Never let a GC read "founded 2026" without the career next to it: 32 years against a field of brand-new LLCs is the strongest single line in this application, and it answers the "years in business" question before it is asked.

A portfolio is not a resume. Twelve portfolio images are good marketing for homeowners and weak evidence for a GC. GCs want dollar values, dates, contract type, and who else was on the job. Fill in real numbers.

North Carolina is a per-project threshold, not a per-year one. N.C.G.S. § 87-1(a) deems you a general contractor -- and therefore requires an NC license -- only where "the cost of the undertaking is forty thousand dollars ($40,000) or more." That figure was raised from $30,000 by House Bill 488 effective October 1, 2023, so anything under $40,000 may be bid and built in NC with no NC license at all. § 87-14 likewise only requires proof of licensure (or of an exemption) before being entitled to a permit on work at or above that amount.

What this means in practice:

- Under $40,000 in NC -- bid it, pull the permit, no NC license needed. Most repair, drywall, roofing, flooring, bath and small kitchen work in Currituck County and Elizabeth City falls here.

- At or over $40,000 in NC -- an NC license is required before you are entitled to the permit, not merely before you invoice. A whole-home gut rehab, an addition, or a multifamily conversion will cross it routinely. Either get licensed or decline that scope.

- The threshold is measured per project, so several sub-$40k jobs in a year are fine; one $40k job is not.

- § 87-10(a1) also tiers NC licences once you do hold one -- Limited to $750,000, Intermediate to $1,500,000, Unlimited above that -- which is a separate axis from the $40,000 threshold.

[VERIFY -- ELECTRICAL, HIGH CONFIDENCE. A standing bilateral reciprocity agreement exists between the NC State Board of Examiners of Electrical Contractors and the Virginia Board for Contractors. VA Class A Contracting + Master Tradesman Electrical maps to ANY NC electrical classification -- Special Restricted, Limited, Intermediate and Unlimited. VA Class B maps to SP/Limited/Intermediate only. Reciprocity waives the technical examination ONLY; the applicant still files an application, pays the annual fee, supplies official verification of VA licensure, and passes a 25-question NC laws-and-rules open-book exam. Source: ncbeec.org/virginia, and VA DPOR's tradesman reciprocal agreements PDF.]

[VERIFY -- GENERAL CONTRACTING, UNCONFIRMED. NC G.S. § 87-15.1 permits the Board, IN ITS DISCRETION, to issue a license of equivalent classification to a GC licensed in another state without written examination. VA separately lists NC->VA examination waivers for Residential Building Contractor and Commercial Building Contractor. No standing VA?NC general-contracting agreement was confirmed, and the two schemes are structurally different (VA A/B/C by value; NC Limited/Intermediate/Unlimited by project value). CALL 919-845-4240 / nclbgc.org before assuming it applies. Only matters for NC work at or above $40,000 -- below that, no NC license is needed at all.]

Do not overstate self-performance. If plumbing and electrical are performed by licensed partners rather than your own crews, say so. It is a normal, defensible arrangement -- and it is what your own About page already says. What is not defensible is claiming crews you don't have and getting caught on the first billed draw.

You are buying access, not selling. The first year of sub work is almost never profitable on paper. The return is a GC relationship that eventually produces repeat work you schedule yourself. Price accordingly and do not chase volume that breaks your crews.
